

You are asked to send phone credit to a research participant in Uganda prior to them consenting to an interview with you. What do you do?	Your informant asks you for the media footage you recorded because there is someone they need to identify. You suspect a vendetta. What do you do?	You are having a Zoom interview with an important gatekeeper and your partner passes behind you naked. What do you do?
You have concluded research on a secret and private spiritual Yoruba group on Facebook. They tell you they do not want you to publish some of your work because they now consider it private even though they gave you consent to witness and record it. What do you do?	Outsiders appear in the Moroccan online asylum seeker group where you are doing fieldwork. You suspect that they are human traffickers. What do you do?	Your Palestinian interlocutors, who follow your private profile, find your old pictures from your holidays in Israel in your profile. They shut you out. What do you do?
You are granted access to a community online. The police contacts you regarding terror investigations and requires you to give information about the group. What do you do?	The sunset in your fieldsite is awesome and you want to send a snapchat to your partner but there are children everywhere that would be in the picture. What do you do?	Your interlocutor asks you to advertise her dessous shop to your followers. What do you do?

A teenage interlocutor suddenly sends you intimate WhatsApp messages late at night, what do you do?	A ten-year-old research participant wants your phone number, what do you do?	An interlocutor, an elderly lady living alone, keeps calling you and sending you WhatsApp messages with inspirational quotes every day - with increasing frequency. What do you do?
A research participant sends you a dick pic, what do you do?	An interlocutor demands to see your private messages after showing you his, what do you do?	An interlocutor shares extremely racist memes on their feed, what do you do?
A former research participant, now 18, shares her OnlyFans pictures in her Instagram story. What do you do?	You receive a very specific threat online for sharing a research-related post, what do you do?	A research participant shares private/intimate images of you in public online groups, what do you do?

Someone you barely know accuses you of being a spy and asks others in a Telegram channel to ignore you and expel you from all channels, what do you do?	An interlocutor connects to you on Tinder and wants to meet you, what do you do?	A research participant writes sexist comments on your Instagram post, what do you do?
You are conducting fieldwork in Jakarta. Your key informant wants to connect with your parents on Facebook, what do you do?	You are made to do an embarrassing TikTok dance with your teenage interlocutors, which they later post on their feeds. What do you do?	An interlocutor comments on your Instagram post and asks you to urgently send money through Western Union for health issues, what do you do?
An important gatekeeper asks you to publicly sign his online petition to save the children from the "vaccine genocide". What do you do?	An informer gets into your Twitter profile and shares a conspiracy theory saying that 5G technologies were created by aliens to destroy humanity. What do you do?	An interlocutor steals your phone and runs away, what do you do?